Information on the group in DC:

Pakistanis in the DC area are some of the most devout Muslims; they talk the talk and wear the garb. Most are regular attenders to their local mosque and generally help in the running of the mosque. Quite a few are even the imams at the local mosques. However, they are very open to talk and generally speak English well. Great places for engagement are in markets or in taxicabs, as many of them drive taxis in the city.
