Information on the group in DC:

The largest population of Thai people outside of Thailand is the United States. Although DC does not have the largest population of Thai in the US, there is definitely a clear presence of Thai immigrants in and around the city. There are many clusters scattered to the north, west, and south. Thai people are well known for their food, and there are a large number of Thai restaurants throughout the city, where all employees are Thai immigrants. Thai people can also be found and engaged in Buddhist temples and Asian markets.
