

He Will Wipe Away Every Tear

One evening, my wife took our children on a bike ride in our neighborhood. There was a large hill that all of our children had been waiting to conquer. One after the other, they flew down the hill, wind in their hair, building confidence with each ride. Suddenly, one of my daughters lost control, flying off her bike and sliding down the hill. I could hear the cry all the way in the house as my wife carried her in her arms back home. I proceed to wash, clean and bandage wounds, as the tears continued to pour. Every few moments, I would take my hand and wipe away her tears, as a reminder that she is safe in my arms, that it would all be okay.

This moment reminded me of Revelation 21:4, “He will wipe away every tear from their eyes, and death shall be no more, neither shall there be mourning, nor crying, nor pain anymore, for the former things have passed away.”

God, Himself, will wipe them away. He will personally remove the pain and promise eternal hope and healing. No matter the pain of today, in Christ, our tomorrow is in God’s hands.
