Vision for Eternity
Fred Unger

“Where there is no vision the people perish.”

PROVERBS 29:18

Vision begins with the end in mind. Every runner who gets set to run a race knows where the finish line is before the race begins. Vision is the ability to see the finish line and focus on crossing that end line. Runners may train for months—even years. And they will do whatever it takes to finish the race.

In the same way, God wants each one of us to be involved in running the race for His Kingdom. He wants you to be on mission with Him that will be part of fulfilling a vision for eternity. He wants each one of us to grow in our love for Him and our love for one another so that we may finish the race together.

God has created the church to be just like the runners in that race. While the Apostle Paul encourages each one to run the race as if we were going to win (1 Corinthians 9:24), God doesn't want our individuality to supersede that which we need to do together. God's vision for your life and for the life of the church brings hope for eternity. Without a finish line, without the end in mind, people will spiritually die.

Run the race in such a way that people will see your vision for eternity, so they might hear the good news of Jesus Christ to help them cross the finish line!
